

RAIDERS HIT FATAH IN HEART OF BEIRUT

By HIRSH GOODMAN

A select force of paratroopers and naval commandos attacked seven targets in the heart of Beirut early yesterday morning in one of the most daring raids in the annals of Israeli military history.

A small task force of men killed three top Fatah leaders in their beds, while a second force demolished a seven-story building which served as the headquarters of the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, in the centre of the city.

Two Israeli soldiers were killed in the operation. The name of one was released. He was Segen Aviva Shur, 23, from Kibbutz Shuvul. Two other soldiers were wounded. They were ferried by helicopter to Haifa's Rambam Hospital and underwent surgery. Their names were not released.

Other targets attacked yesterday included two terrorist workshops and munitions plants on the edges of the city, and the Fatah headquarters in the south of the town which serves as the main headquarters for all terrorist actions in the area. A garage and vehicle repair shop on the coast was also attacked and destroyed.

Over 50 terrorists are thought to have been killed or wounded in the raid. Several Lebanese soldiers who attempted to intervene were also wounded. The main blow suffered by the terrorists was the death of three of their top leaders, Mohammed Youssef Najjar, Kamal Nasser and Kamal Adwan.

DETAILS SECRET
The operative details of the raid are clouded in secrecy. The force arrived and left by sea, landing on the Beirut beach. While one group of raiders attacked the Fatah headquarters and workshop in the southern section of the town, several other groups raced to five other destinations in the Lebanese capital.

The raiders spent nearly two-and-a-half hours in the town, are reported to have been dressed in civilian clothes during the attack, and were transported to their destinations in Lebanese taxis which had been hired for the purpose.

The seven-story headquarters of the Democratic Front, situated on the corner of Rue Ghana and Rue Universite in the southern suburbs of the town, housed the main operations centre and offices of the organization. It was also the most heavily guarded of the targets attacked, and it is here that the Israeli forces suffered the casualties.

At a press conference in Tel Aviv yesterday, Chief of Staff David Elazar said the raid was part of Israel's offensive policy against the terrorist movements. It came in reply to rising terrorist activity from Lebanon and abroad over the past month.

Rav-Aluf Elazar would not say whether the raid was an answer to the terrorist attack in Nicosia Monday night, but this is not thought likely since a raid of these dimensions needs long planning.

The three Fatah men killed in the raid were among the top operative officers of the terrorist organization, and their loss is going to have a profound effect on the operative capability of Fatah. The three were killed in their beds, while sleeping with their families in three flats, situated in two interwoven with the operation, but the Israeli forces that took part in the operation were given strict instructions to avoid clashes with

Lebanese Army regulars, unless they interfered with the operation, but the Israeli forces that took part in the operation were given strict instructions to avoid clashes with

Army sources said yesterday it was highly doubtful whether there were any civilian casualties, but he noted that the targets attacked were in an urban area, and there might have been casualties.

Rav-Aluf Elazar said that the Lebanese authorities would have to draw their own conclusions from the raid. He noted that Lebanon was one of the very few countries in the world today where terrorists are allowed to operate in total freedom, and said that the country had become the centre for the training of foreign nationals in terrorism.

He did not believe that yesterday's operation would put an end to all terrorism emanating from Lebanon, but felt "it was a serious blow" which would leave its mark.

One Army source described yesterday's raid as the opening of a new page in Israel's relations with both the terrorists and the Lebanese. No longer are only the terrorists sent into action in danger of being killed, and no longer is the capital of Lebanon immune from retaliatory action. They must reach the conclusion that nothing and nobody is safe anymore, he said.

BEIRUT MAY ACT

No immediate action by Lebanon to restrain terrorism is expected by observers here. But it is generally believed that the Lebanese Government will institute a gradual process aimed at curtailing terrorist freedom in the country. No government can accept a foreign power doing its work for it, one official said yesterday, and since the Lebanese are hardly in a position to challenge Israel's capability of doing so, it is logical that they will choose to clamp down on the terrorists instead.

The raid took place shortly after one o'clock yesterday morning, and by six a.m. all forces had returned safely to base. The soldiers arrived at Beirut — over 100 kilometres from Rosh Hanikra — by missile boat and paddled to shore in rubber dinghies.

The danger to the men at all stages of the operation was immense — two-and-a-half hours dispersed in small groups in the capital city of hostile country. All in all it was described by knowledgeable sources yesterday as one of the most daring operations to date, and the I.D.F. has a long history of unique operations.

The last major Israeli raid into Lebanon was on February 21, when Israeli forces — which also arrived by sea — attacked seven terrorist concentrations and killed over 40 terrorists. Since then there have been nine separate terrorist actions by terrorists in Lebanon. The latest was Monday's attack on the Israeli Embassy and an Arica plane in Nicosia. Beirut has also proved a haven for terrorists who managed to escape after executing actions abroad, and for those released following Arab diplomatic pressure or acts of extortion by terrorist groups.

Terrorist radio stations last night issued frantic warnings to sabotage cells allegedly operating inside Israel and the administered territories, ordering them to scatter.

The calls, on the terrorists' Cairo radio stations, came after the terrorists had announced that important documents had been captured by the Israeli troops which raided Beirut before dawn yesterday.

The early-morning attack cost the terrorists three of their top leaders. Most important of them was Mohammed Youssef Najjar, code-named Abu Youssef, the alleged mastermind of the Black September massacre of 11 Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics.

The documents were said to have been taken from the home of Kamal Adwan, another of the Fatah commanders killed in the Israeli raid. All three men were close associates of Fatah boss Yasser Arafat, who yesterday went into seclusion to mourn his comrades.

One of the party announcements, read over the Sawt al-Thawra al-Falastiniya station, stated: "From Alef to Abu Antar. The leader is dead. Be on maximum alert. Order your comrades to disperse all over the country. Allah be with you."

Abu Youssef recently succeeded Salah Khalaf (Abu Iyad), as the number two man in the Fatah hierarchy. He was identified by Mohammed David Ordeh (Abu David), the Fatah chief who recently captured in Jordan, as the head of "Yihya al-Bad" the Fatah intelligence bureau which controls Black September.

Adwan, 37, was the Fatah central committee member in charge of terrorist activity in Israel and the administered territories. Adwan was particularly close to Arafat, often representing the Fatah boss at high-level in Beirut.

Nasser, 48, the official spokesman of the P.L.O. was born in Hirt, north of Ramallah. He was deported to Jordan shortly after the 1967 war, for subversive activity. Nasser, a law and political science university graduate, was an outspoken foe of the Hashemite monarchy, often calling for King Hussein's overthrow.

Several other key terrorist figures reportedly were wounded in the Israeli raid, including Ziad el-Helou, one of the four Black September members who assassinated Jordan's Prime Minister Wasfi Tal in Cairo in November, 1971. Helou last week escaped injury in an apparent assassination attempt, when a bomb exploded in a car similar to his own in a Beirut street. Yesterday he was shot in the chest and the shoulder.

LEBANESE PREMIER RESIGNS

Jerusalem Post Arab Affairs Reporter

Lebanon's Prime Minister Sa'eb Salam last night submitted his resignation to President Suleiman Franjeh following an extraordinary Cabinet session, summoned to discuss Israel's pre-dawn raid on Beirut and Sidon yesterday.

An official statement issued in Beirut said that President Franjeh will decide today on whether to accept Salam's resignation. Salam, 68, took over the Premiership on October 1970, at the height of a Lebanese-terrorist crisis over Israel's retaliatory raids against the sabotage movement's activity in southern Lebanon.

Salam had been often criticised by Lebanese rightist political circles for maintaining a tolerant government attitude towards the terrorists. Yesterday the terrorists accused the Lebanese Government of having collaborated with the Israeli forces against them. In a broadcast over their radio in Dera'a, southern Syria, the terrorists said that the Israelis "could not have entered Beirut" without the Lebanese Government's complicity.

Salam's resignation was announced shortly after he attended a conference between President Franjeh and Hassan Sabry al-Khouly, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's personal envoy, who arrived in Beirut in the aftermath of the Israeli raid in Lebanon.

In a statement broadcast over Beirut Radio Salam said that his country's interest called for his resignation — meaning also that of his entire Cabinet.

Salam appealed to the Lebanese people to rally behind President Franjeh. His call came as thousands of demonstrators marched in Beirut's streets in support of the terrorist movement. A large crowd of these demonstrators surrounded the American Embassy to which security reinforcements were rushed amid terrorist claims about the Embassy's complicity in Israel's raid yesterday.

The Cabinet met for one hour at luncheon yesterday to hear reports from the Defence Minister and the Chief of Staff on the raids into Lebanon and the terrorist attacks in Nicosia on Monday. No details at all were released. The Chief of Staff was seen leaving the meeting with a wave of maps and charts.

The Cabinet Secretary issued a short statement saying that Premier Meir had expressed her condolences, on behalf of the Government, to the bereaved families, and that she wished the wounded soldiers a speedy recovery.

The Prime Minister also congratulated the Chief of Staff and asked him to convey the Cabinet's greetings to the soldiers involved in the action. "She also conveyed her good wishes to the security personnel involved," the Cabinet statement read.

Mrs. Meir also conveyed the greetings of the Government to the President-elect, on his election.

On Monday, ministers convened in a top-level consultation to approve in advance the I.D.F. action, it is reliably learned.

Three persons were killed and a fourth seriously injured in road accidents at Zichron Ya'akov and Beersheba yesterday afternoon.

Amiel Cooper of Givatayim and an as-yet-undetermined woman were killed in a collision between two cars on the Coastal Highway near the Zichron Ya'akov turnoff. Cooper, 53, was driving one of the cars. The driver of the other vehicle, Baruch Grotzky of Kiryat Bialik, was taken to Hadassah's Einzel Yofe hospital in serious condition.

In Beersheba an elderly man was fatally injured when a truck struck the bicycle he was riding at the intersection of Derech Eilat and Rehov Assaf Simhoni. The man, aged about 70, died on the way to hospital. Police had not identified him as of last night. (THM)

Price, subsidy hikes to ease cement crisis

Jerusalem Post Economic Reporter
The official price of cement was raised yesterday from IL119 a ton to IL130. This, in addition to a new subsidy to be granted cement importers, should encourage increased imports and so ease the present cement shortage.

Importers will now get a IL55 per ton Government subsidy because of rising costs abroad. Dr. Moshe Mandelbaum, Deputy-Director of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, said yesterday. The subsidy will remain in force until the end of 1973. (In Turkey, a cheap supplier, the price of cement rose from $9 a ton 18 months ago, to $20 today.)

Nesher — the country's only cement producer — has been supplementing its production by imports and selling at the controlled price as a flourishing black market. The new rates would now make imports profitable and so encourage others to import.

The tax on locally made cement has been increased by IL25 a ton, — so that Nesher will actually receive IL14 a ton less than before, IL25 minus the IL11 price increase. "This will be their contribution to the cost of the imports subsidy," Mr. Mandelbaum said.

The price increase was not expected to have any significant effect on the selling price of buildings.

U.S. raps both sides

WASHINGTON (AP). — The U.S. State Department, through spokesman Charles Bray, criticized both sides over the raid. On many occasions, he said, we have deplored the cycle of violence which has taken such a heavy toll in human life and suffering, and we must regretfully deplore it again.

Bray emphatically rejected charges that some Israeli military forces had taken refuge in the U.S. Embassy. "That allegation is utterly without foundation," he said. "It is mischievous and it has been denied categorically by our Embassy in Beirut. It is sufficiently mischievous that we hope it will not be given credence in the area as (were) earlier allegations in previous years."

In 1967, during the Six Day War, allegations that the U.S. was in some way involved in the destruction of Egyptian warplanes on the ground were used by Cairo as one reason for its break in diplomatic relations with Washington.

Because of mourning in Kibbutz Shoval, the Wedding of Mindy Alpert and Menachem Giv'on will take place in Jerusalem.

Palestine Liberation Organization, and Fatah leaders Mohammed Najjar and Kamel Adwan. Najjar was also known by the code name Abu Yusef.

A man who lives there saw men dressed in civilian clothes guarding three Mercedes cars. "The men knew exactly where they were going," he said.

"After the shooting started, a police jeep turned up with its siren going full blast. The Israelis killed two of the policemen."

The jeep, riddled with bullets, its tyres flat and its petrol tank leaking, stood outside the apartment block. It was rammed against an American-type sedan. Twenty-five metres away an unexploded grenade lay in the middle of the street. The gutters were littered with expended shell cases.

Other residents of the Snoubra area, which is 800 metres from Beirut's fashionable Hamra shopping street, were woken by the Israeli shooting at around 1 a.m. Armed terrorists in the area said, "The cars must have been waiting for them, and a spy must have taken them straight to the building."

During the fighting, Beirut airport was closed to traffic for two hours. The airport and large areas of Beirut were blacked out and shooting could be heard across the city.

Mrs. Maha al-Kayoussy Adwan, widow of the Fatah leader, said she was talking with her husband when they heard shooting and grenades downstairs. Adwan's mother-in-law was also killed in the shooting.

Mrs. Adwan said five or six men in civilian clothes broke down the door to their apartment just as her husband snatched up his automatic rifle and opened fire. A body lay under a sheet outside the building as dawn broke.

At al-Ouzai, a few minutes' drive south of Beirut, women wept around the bodies of three Syrian workers who were killed when the Israelis blew up a two-storey concrete building with demolition charges. Two wrecked Volkswagen cars lay on their sides near the wreckage. Local residents said they could not understand the Israeli attack on the building because "it had no connection" with the terrorists.

In Sidon, the Israelis also landed from the sea and blew up what the Defence Ministry described as "two rooms used as a car repair garage." This was believed to be a Fatah garage just outside the city which was bombed by Israeli aircraft last October.

Meir lauds IDF heroism

Premier Golda Meir said yesterday that a glorious page would one day be written about the planning and execution of the raids into Lebanon, and the boundless devotion of the fighters.

The operations contained exceptional elements, she said in the Knesset. They were aimed at men who had committed murders in the past and planned to commit more in the future. "The commandos took risks upon themselves in their supreme efforts not to injure innocent people."

She said the Cabinet also expressed its appreciation for the anonymous soldiers whose fronts were in many parts of the world. Alone or in pairs, they confront murderers, and protect Jewish lives. They defend, disarm, Jewish and Israeli institutions, and they are just as devoted as the soldiers who went into Lebanon.

"This is one and the same generation. They are the same sons — in uniform and out. Honour to them all," she said.

She voiced the Cabinet's profound regret over the two soldiers who gave their lives, and sent her condolences to the families and members of their kibbutzim. She also wished the wounded a speedy recovery.

Raid explained abroad

Jerusalem Post Diplomatic Correspondent
Israel's embassies and legations abroad yesterday launched an information campaign over the IDF raid on Beirut and Sidon, stressing Lebanon's central place in the terrorist network, and the crucial role of Abu Youssef, Kamel Adwan and Kamel Nasser in terrorist operations. The three were killed in the raid.

However, by last night, Israel had received no diplomatic representations over the action. One observer commented: "The world has grown up. It has become used to the way we handle the terrorism problem."

In explaining the background to the raid, the Foreign Ministry also sent its foreign representatives full curriculum vitae on the three top Fatah and Black September leaders killed in the assault.

The U.S. Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Owen Zurbellen, called on Foreign Minister Abba Eban in Jerusalem yesterday. The meeting had been planned some weeks ago, and Mr. Zurbellen did not formally raise the IDF action, informed sources said.

Mr. Zurbellen had planned to hear from the minister an up-to-date survey of the political situation prior to a meeting of U.S. Middle East ambassadors in Tehran this weekend. Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco will attend this meeting.

Mr. Zurbellen said he was glad that Israel's envoy to Cyprus, Ragamim Timor, had escaped unhurt from the terrorist attempt on his life on Monday.

He then asked the Foreign Minister about reports of land purchases by Israelis on the West Bank, suggesting these could narrow the options for peace. Mr. Eban returned him to the Cabinet decision of Sunday which ruled that the present policy barring private individuals from buying land would continue.

MOSCOW: 'Intimidation'

MOSCOW (UPI). — Tass denounced the raid as a bandit attack designed to intimidate the Arab countries and prevent a relaxation of tension in the Middle East.

Tass commentator Yuri Kornilov also said that the United States, by selling planes to Israel, has given "direct encouragement to Israel's expansionist policy, instigation to new acts of aggression against its Arab neighbours."

Kornilov, in a lengthy commentary, made no mention of the Arab attack in Cyprus.

"Israel's armed provocations and bandit raids against its Arab neighbours are not isolated incidents but a carefully planned political course, the purpose of which is to intimidate the Arab countries and to prevent a relaxation of tension in the Middle East," Kornilov wrote.

LONDON: 'Arab shambles'

By DAVID LENNON
Jerusalem Post Correspondent
LONDON — The British press yesterday gave prominence to the strike against the Fatah leaders. Many of the early editions led their front pages with the terrorist attack in Cyprus, but later editions already had turned the Israeli raids into the larger of the two stories.

There was no editorial reaction to the Cyprus battle. "The Daily Express" described the Arab actions as a series of mistakes which led to the battle ending in a shambles for them. The paper also quoted an Israeli intelligence officer as saying that the plot had failed because "we knew the Arabs would strike so we brought in help from Israel and warned the Cypriots. We were at the airport early this morning waiting for something to happen."

PARIS: 'Blow to terror'

By JACK MAURICE
Jerusalem Post Correspondent
PARIS. — The Israeli raids at Beirut and Sidon were a "severe blow" against the Palestinian terrorists, the evening newspaper "Le Monde" commented yesterday. The newspaper said that the terrorists were "already eliminated in Jordan and severely controlled in Egypt and Syria — now their leaders are not even safe at home in Beirut."

No-confidence motions defeated

Meir: Land buying in areas would lead to speculation

By ASHER WALLFISH
Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter
Prime Minister Golda Meir claimed yesterday that many proponents of private land purchasing in the administered territories were motivated by the prospect of land speculation. This was one of the reasons that she opposed opening the areas to private buyers, she said.

Mrs. Meir was replying to three motions of no-confidence in the government tabled in the Knesset over the Cabinet's decision Sunday not to allow individual real estate purchasing in the territories.

Mrs. Meir's speech slid at times into a shouting match with Shmuel Tamir of the Free Centre, who presented one of the three motions, and with Gahal and the New Communist List. Rakah, which tabled the others. The Gahal and Free Centre motions were defeated 56-22 with 11 abstentions. Rakah's motion, which sought to halt all purchases, even by the government, was crushed 82-6.

Mrs. Meir admitted that at one time she was almost persuaded to support private land buying as proposed by Defence Minister Moshe Dayan, although her Cabinet colleagues understood she was reluctant.

She changed her mind, she said, because she feared the government would later be confronted with a fait accompli, and she recognized the danger of land speculation.

Mrs. Meir vigorously denied allegations by the opposition that she changed her mind because she feared incurring U.S. displeasure.

The Prime Minister dealt sarcastically with Mr. Menachem Begin, who spoke for Gahal, and with Mr. Tamir. She said that all applications for land purchases had applied to areas from Ramallah to Bethlehem "and nobody asked to buy land in the Jordan Valley, for instance."

Then she read out a list of the applicants, and pointedly noted that many of them were lawyers. They had sought to purchase tracts of 70,000 dunams, 15,000 dunams, 3,000 dunams, 500 dunams, and so forth, she said.

When Yigal Horowitz of the State List, one of the prospective buyers, objected to her remarks, Mrs. Meir shouted back: "What did you want to do with that land, Mr. Horowitz?"

"I wanted to build shikunim," he replied.

"Oh yes. For young couples, I suppose," snapped Mrs. Meir.

The Premier said the opposition's attempts to compare her decision to the British White Paper banning land sales to Jews in 1940 were "folly and wickedness." The measure of Israel's White Paper, she said, was the 45 new settlements built in the administered areas since 1967. She said that the government had not ruled out any section of the territories as forbidden for Jewish settlement, but all decisions on the subject were in the domain of the Ministerial Committee on Settlement.

Mr. Begin said it was wrong as well as offensive to predict that permission to buy land privately would lead to speculation. It was misleading to claim that land purchases would drive the prospect of peace away, Mr. Begin said, adding the Arabs did not want peace, and Israel would not accept King Hussein's demand for total withdrawal.

Mr. Begin said that in 1967 the government and the World Zionist Organization had issued a call to the Jews of the world

3 Gaza get life for kill

Jerusalem Post 8
GAZA. — Three members of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, convicted Gaza Strip civilians, were sentenced to life imprisonment for the killing of a Shati refugee last Friday.

A fourth defendant, Hani Musa Ghablin, was sentenced to life in a separate military trial.

Abdel Aziz al-Amass was sentenced to life in a separate military trial. The grenade, which killed the Shati refugee, was found in his possession.

A third defendant in year-old Hattem al-Jal was sentenced to life in a separate military trial. The third defendant in year-old Hattem al-Jal was sentenced to life in a separate military trial.

The military authorities had approved these sales with government sanction, he said. Buyers had even flown to South America to settle land transactions with sellers who lived there, he charged.

"The occupying authorities are making it possible to dispossess the Arab Palestinian nation of its land and its rights," and the enlightened world would not tolerate this, he declared.

Mr. Wilner said that Premier Meir only changed her mind about the land sales last week-end, when Assistant U.S. Secretary of State Joseph Sisco telephoned Ambassador Simha Dinitz, and Dinitz through this American disapproval through to Jerusalem. (Mrs. Meir denied this development figured in her decision.)

Mr. Tamir said the "bogey" of land speculation was absurd. Tel Aviv and Petah Tikva were set up by private people buying one dunam after another, and building houses. In the rest of the world, this was simply called "land development."

Allon opposes bid for TV inquiry

Education Minister Yigal Allon told the chairman of the Knesset Education Committee on Monday he opposed the chairman's proposal for an inquiry into what is going on inside Television House.

The proposal had been made by Dr. Eliezer Rikbak, who said there was "too much contention inside TV House" and that various groups of workers there had been slinging accusations at one another.

Mr. Allon said a BBC expert was due in Israel. It made no sense to set up an inquiry before he had a chance to present his own findings.

ICAO group leaves Israel

LOD AIRPORT. — A delegation of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) investigating the downing of the Libyan plane over Sinai on February 21 wound up its work and flew to Cyprus yesterday to complete its report.

The leader of the ICAO mission, Russell Watts, told reporters here that the Israeli authorities allowed them to meet anyone they wished and "cooperated satisfactorily" — as did the Libyan and Egyptian authorities.

The delegation met with the O.C. Air Force, with the pilots who downed the Libyan aircraft, and with the survivors of the crash. They also received copies of the official Israeli report on the incident — in which 106 persons were killed and heard the tape from the plane's "black box."

'Oz' medal to navy commando

Jerusalem Post Military Correspondent
The army spokesman announced Monday that Rav-Seren Ilan Eggozi, who was seriously wounded in the raid into North Lebanon, in February, will be awarded the "Oz" medal for courage.

Eggozi had already received the distinguished conduct (mofet) medal for his part in the commando raid on Green Island in the Suez Bay four years ago.

Eggozi, who served with the naval commandos, was injured while leading several men on a mopping-up raid of a terrorist base north of Tripoli on February 21. He lost his right leg and the use of his right eye when a grenade exploded after he picked it up. It had been thrown at a window by a soldier and had bounced back into the group of men. Had he not picked up the grenade, several of the soldiers under Eggozi's command would have been killed or injured.

Eggozi will receive his citation from the Chief-of-Staff, Rav-Aluf David Elazar, in Jerusalem later this month.

A posthumous citation will also be given to Segen-Melchior Mordehai Tukashinski who died in 1957 while trying to extricate several comrades from an Arab ambush.

A third citation, for distinguished conduct, will be given to Rav-Seren Mordehai Shalom, who in 1949 dismantled a five-ton explosive charge in Jerusalem. The charge had been placed in a sewer near the Damascus Gate by members of the Hagana, who intended to blast their way into the city. A year after the Independence War, Shalom, in coordination with the U.N., dismantled the charge at great personal risk.

THE 1900TH anniversary of the fall of Masada will be marked today at a rally atop the fortress, set to begin at 5 p.m. Speakers at the rally, sponsored by the Israel Exploration Society and the Nature Protection Society, will be Defence Minister Moshe Dayan, Prof. Yigal Yadin, and Prof. Menachem Stern.

Israeli dependents quitting Cambodia

PHNOM PENH. — Britain, Israel and Japan have ordered all dependents moved out of their embassies in the Cambodian capital due to food and water shortages and the threat of Communist attack on Friday, diplomatic sources said yesterday.

The French and Soviet embassies are considering similar evacuation plans, the sources said.

Military intelligence reports indicate that Communist units operating within a 24 km. radius of the capital plan a rocket and sapper attack on Friday during the Buddhist New-Year celebrations.

The British, Israeli and Japanese dependents will be evacuated by then, the sources said. Last October 1, the U.S. embassy evacuated its families with dependent children and adopted a "single men only" policy for new personnel.

The move will affect 11 Israeli dependents and nine Japanese and British embassy wives with children. The evacuation of dependents came as U.S. planes flew their 34th consecutive day of bombing missions against Communist targets in Cambodia, the only Indochina country with no formal cease-fire.

With U.S. Air Force backing, Cambodian troops yesterday opened week-old Communist supply blockade of the capital on at least one major front, the Phnom Penh high command said. The highway connects the capital with the seaport at Kompong Som, 137 kms. to the south.

But it takes some weeks to deliver extra supplies from Cambodia's only deep water port at Kompong Som and civilian and military authorities have not enough lorries to shift the bulk of supplies to the capital.

Since this will not ease the situation immediately, Phnom Penh remains in the grip of a supply crisis. Only three more ships from a big convoy beat the Communist blockade on the Mekong River and reached the capital. This brings to eight the total number of ships from an original convoy of 19, to slip through with relief supplies.

The ship cargoes that have arrived here are not sufficient to supply the capital and its 1.5 million people for long, according to industrial sources. Rationed supplies of petrol, now on sale again to private transport, are not expected to last more than a week.

The government is trying to enforce existing food rationing controls to restrict buyers to 300 gms. of rice per day for each member of their families.

TA Maccabi downs Hapoel 105-93

TEL AVIV. — Tel Aviv Maccabi last night defeated Tel Aviv Hapoel 105-93 in their national basketball league derby at the Yad Eliahu Sports Hall before 6,000 spectators. Maccabi, which has already won this season's championship title, led 54-50 at halftime.

Strike ends at silo

Jerusalem Post Reporter
HAIFA. — The 34 Dagon Silo workers resumed regular work yesterday afternoon, ending their nine day go-slow which had halved the silo's turnover. Their committee ordered them back to work after the Labour Minister Yosef Almog agreed to meet them today provided they stopped their slow-down.

Mr. Almog reportedly promised to get negotiations started on the workers' demand to be represented by the Port Workers Committee. Both the management and the Labour Council have rejected this demand.

The committee termed Mr. Almog's willingness to meet them a "victory." However, Haifa Labour Council Secretary Eliezer Molk told The Post that he understood Mr. Almog was meeting them simply as a "Haifa man" and not in his capacity as Labour Minister. The negotiations on the dispute would be held with the council, he said.

Rival Kedma squatters again; two leaders h

KEDMA. — A two-week "cease-fire" between two rival squatters' groups at this abandoned kibbutz ended abruptly Monday night — only 12 hours after an Ashkelon judge cancelled an order forbidding the groups' leaders to set foot here.

The leaders of one of the groups, Shlomo and Prosper Azulai, were arrested yesterday along with seven other persons who were later released.

Kedma was unofficially settled two and a half years ago by a group of religious Americans called the Family of Israel, who have been rehabilitating former drug abusers and juvenile delinquents. A few months ago they were joined by a group of Kibbutz Malachi youngsters, headed by the Azulai brothers, who occupied four of the buildings. The two groups have been fighting over the kibbutz ever since.

Two weeks ago the Ashkelon court ordered Azulai and Reuven Mandell, leader of the Family of Israel, to stay out of Kedma until the cases against them came up for hearings — Monday. On Monday the order was rescinded — but the cases were not settled. (The charges include assault and damaging property.)

At four a.m. yesterday members of the Family of Israel complained to police that the Kibbutz Malachi group, with "reinforcements" from Hatzva, had occupied several more buildings, breaking furniture and tossing personal belongings outside.

They also allegedly used a bulldozer to destroy six dunams of alfalfa crop and several getables.

Azulai and his group were acting on knowledge and approval of the Agency — which financial support to Israel last fall. But it ousted from the ood and arrested after they failed to corroborate Mr. Mandell's story.

The Jerusalem Post police, on "belatedly" the scene, failed at any action or to stop her. They finally did she had telephoned in Beersheba, she said.

Defeats Urbach, 66 to 41 KATCHALSKI ELECTED FOURTH PRESIDENT

Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter

Knesset yesterday in a ballot elected Professor Im Katchalski Israel's President. He won on the ballot, defeating the only candidate, Hebrew University Professor Ephraim Urbach, 66 to 41.

The House's 120 Members 116 cast in the voting, nine of casting blank ballots. Three were not present — two of poor health and the third apparently objected to the election.

M.K. announced from his seat he would not take part in the election.

Announcing the results, Yisrael Yeshayahu said Katchalski had told him he Hebraized his name to Katchur, means "harvest" in Hebrew, the name of Prof. Ephraim Urbach's scientist brother Prof. Katchur — a victim of the 1948 massacre at Tel Aviv. Katchalski's name was not on the ballot. Urbach was not present. Mr. Yeshayahu said he had told his term of office as President of the State, Israel enjoying a lasting peace, the gathering of the Diaspora, and West into one people, and the prosperity of the State. The Speaker added a brief phrase: "Knesset vigils for Katchalski" ("Honour and glory to the President-elect").

Mr. Yeshayahu remained until May 24, when Prof. Katchalski will be sworn in at a Knesset session — as of 1973 comes to an end. The 23rd is ushered in. The President's birthday is on May 11. He will be 57 when he takes office.

The 66 votes for Prof. Katchalski came from the Labour-Mapam Alignment, the Alignment-affiliated Arab and Druse Members, the Independent Liberals, Communist Shmuel Mikunis and Independent Meir Avizohar.

Prof. Urbach's 41 votes came from Gahal, the National Religious Party, the State List, the Free Centre and Ha'olam Hazeh.

The New Communists, the Aguda and the Poale Aguda cast blank ballots. Independent Shalom Cohen responded to the calling of his name by the announcement that he was not voting.

The N.R.P.'s Rabbi Moshe Zvi Neirya stayed away from the House, apparently because he refused to vote for his faction's man, Prof. Urbach. One Alignment and one Gahal M.K. were confined to bed. Independent Avner Selaky — who quit the N.R.P. a fortnight ago, voted for Prof. Urbach. However, it is believed ex-N.R.P. chairman Yitzhak Raphael cast his vote for Prof. Katchalski, because of long-standing bad feeling between him and Prof. Urbach.

CHAMBER PACKED
The Knesset chamber was packed, as were the public and press galleries. The entire Cabinet was present — including those Ministers who could not vote for the President because they are not Knesset Members.

Mr. Yeshayahu opened the session by reading out the appropriate sections of the Basic Law: President, dealing with electoral procedure, and naming the two candidates.

A senior usher stood at the back of the Speaker's podium outside a voting booth, covered with a green cloth, that was set up for the occasion. As M.K.s came up one by one, the usher drew aside the curtain. On a table inside, the members found Katchalski and Urbach.

LASTING PEACE
The President-elect said he prayed his term would see "a lasting peace, which will enable us to develop our talents and a way of life we can be proud of — one that will be an example to the entire world."

After pledging to follow in the footsteps of Israel's first three Presidents (Chaim Weizmann, Itzhak Ben-Zvi and Zalman Shazar), Prof. Katchalski sent his best wishes to Prof. Ephraim Urbach, the unsuccessful candidate.

The President-elect added that it was a "good thing there were other candidates in the running during the various stages of the Presidential election campaign."

Asked about the events of the previous night, Prof. Katchalski said the State's primary obligation was to protect its citizens and to "prevent terrorism and maintain from despoiling human life." He said it was a "good day when the army proved its devotion and defensive capabilities," but added that — once Israel's security is assured — life here will be worthwhile only if it is based on Jewish intellectual and humanitarian values.

At this, one M.K. chafed Mr. Toubi that his blank slip could have been in any language, and Housing Minister Zeev Sharet complimented the Arab M.K. that "his Hebrew was excellent."

TV cameras whirled, and all eyes were turned upon Deputy Speaker Yitzhak Navon as he went up to vote. His composure and good humour showed no trace of his narrow defeat as Labour candidate by Prof. Katchalski.

Navon called the President-elect: "Please accept my sincerest congratulations on your election. With a handshake and esteem, Yitzhak Navon."

The ballots were counted by a five-man committee appointed by the Speaker, and composed of Ari Ankori (Alignment), Benzion Keshet (Gahal), Daniel Levi (N.R.P.), Shimon Lurkes (Aguda) and Meir Avizohar (Independent).

The moment the session ended, N.R.P. faction chairman Yosef Goldschmidt and party chairman Zvi Bernstein sent telegrams of congratulations to Prof. Katchalski in Rehovot.

Three Frenchmen get within 40 km. of Canal

ASHKELOH. — Three Frenchmen who declared they would sail down the Suez Canal in a rubber dinghy on a "peace mission" got within 40 km. of the Canal last night. But the Egyptian Government reiterated that it would not allow them to proceed down the 168-km.-long Canal, once they reach Port Said.

The three are Paul Ribaud, 43, Alain Debos, 35, and Claude Escatfai, 25 — all newsmen. They set off from Ashkelon at six a.m. yesterday, after having been delayed in Israel for four days.

At 7 o'clock last night the rubber boat with its 40-horse-power motor was spotted passing Rumana, the last settlement on the Northern Sinai coast before the Canal's northern terminus.

Early reports yesterday said the Israeli Navy had sent a gunboat out to bring the little rubber boat back. But a military spokesman later denied that the Israeli forces had any intention of stopping the "peace mission."

SINAI COAST
The three Frenchmen arrived in Israel on Friday, after they got lost off the coast of Sinai Thursday night. Monday morning they returned to El-Arish and tried to push off from there, but the military authorities reportedly prevented them from sailing from the administered areas and escorted them back to Ashkelon.

Mr. Ribaud blamed the French Embassy for his "four days of troubles" and said French officials had convinced the military not to let the boat sail for the Canal. (The Embassy had said it was concerned about their safety if they sailed between Egyptian and Israeli troops facing each other across the waterway, blocked since the 1967 war.)

'Instant murals' at J'm Artists House

A TEAM of Jerusalem artists will create a series of "instant murals" on the walls of the Jerusalem Artists House this Thursday (and not Tuesday, as reported earlier). Some 15 painters will set to work at 9 tomorrow morning and the results will be officially opened in the evening at 8.30.

The "show" will remain open until April 29, when, presumably, the walls will be painted over.

Rush hour master-plan: 100-man highway team to nab illegal parkers

By KENNETH MEYER, Jerusalem Post Reporter

Higher parking fees, stiffer fines and a 100-member team to crack down on parking offenders in Tel Aviv during rush hours — these are some of the recommendations made in a master-plan for relieving city traffic congestion. The plan, commissioned by the Labour and Transport Ministries, was presented at a press conference in Jerusalem yesterday.

Deputy Transport Minister Gad Ya'acobi, who chaired the committee, said that if implemented, the plan could reduce congestion on main streets by up to 10 per cent and save the government IL20m.-40m. in new investments on the traffic infrastructure.

The plan envisages a special 100-man team operating four hours a day on busy Tel Aviv roads, dealing with parking offences.

Another proposal is to stagger opening hours in factories, offices and schools. The recommendations include:

- free parking lots at the periphery of cities, so that motorists will continue by bus to town;
- garbage collection and home and store deliveries to be scheduled outside of rush hours;
- restrictions on driving schools using main streets to teach beginners;
- restricting lanes on main roads to buses only during rush hour;
- higher parking fees in downtown areas to discourage use of private cars, IL50 to IL100 fines for illegal parking, and increased towing of illegally parked cars;
- some main traffic arteries to be made one-way during rush hours (one-way into town in the morning, one-way out of town in the evening);
- trucks to be restricted to use of the right (slow) lane only;

50 West Bank Arabs return home

Jerusalem Post Reporter

JENIN. — Some 50 Arab residents of West Bank villages, who fled to the Arab states during or after the Six Day War, have been permitted to return to their homes, it was learned Monday.

The local military governor approved their return, out of more than 700 applications filed under the Family Reunion Scheme by local residents.

Among the 700 applications are several for persons who were expelled for hostile activities.

Says his task is 'unity'

VOT. — A delegation of members from all the parties to the Knesset met yesterday at the home of Ephraim Katchalski here to congratulate him on his election as President of the State.

President-elect and his family called on President Zalman at Beit Hanassi in Jerusalem.

Knesset members — including special delegation of the Labour Knesset faction, led by Barak — raised glasses to Katchalski's health and wished him luck.

Katchalski told reporters he had the Knesset saw fit to elect a President "a man who is politician or a professional functionary, but who devotes a considerable part of his life to research and intellectual affairs."

He said the Presidency symbolizes the good in Israeli society; the President's task is to cultivate unity among the Jews of Israel and the Diaspora, and to make sure life in Israel is "based on the principles of justice and morality." It is also the President's task to work at closing the social gap and preventing polarization in the society.

LASTING PEACE
The President-elect said he prayed his term would see "a lasting peace, which will enable us to develop our talents and a way of life we can be proud of — one that will be an example to the entire world."

After pledging to follow in the footsteps of Israel's first three Pres-

Editor claims censorship of 'Ot' is political

VIV. — A Labour Party man used military censors of an occasion out of political concerns. The charge came from Shmuel, editor of the party's magazine "Ot."

Shmuel claimed at a press conference on Monday that the "lack of information on personalities (to the magazine) they sometimes seek to miss out of print or change contents."

He said "Ot" was banned from being in army camps on the grounds it is a party bulletin, yet newspapers aligned to parties omitted. He also denied allegations that "Ot" is anti-Defence — Moshe Dayan.

Mr. Shmuel was speaking on the occasion of his magazine's 100th issue. "Ot" usually reflects the dovish line in ex-Mapai.

The editor said he had requested interviews for the issue with Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defence Minister Moshe Dayan, but both had refused.

reprieve for new immigrants
THE JERUSALEM POST MONDAY, APRIL 9, 1973
Immigrant rights cutback postponed until January
Jerusalem Post Reporter
New regulations tightening the customs rules for new immigrants will be postponed for six months and will come into effect January 1974 (instead of July 1973). A recommendation to this effect was made yesterday by Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir to the Knesset Finance Committee.
The chief alteration to be postponed is that newcomers will be confined for their tax free privileges to purchases made in their country of origin or in Israel. Now they have nine months instead of three to meet condition.
Other changes postponed until next January are the following:
• parcels sent to the immigrant after he left for Israel will no longer be duty free.
• the tariff on cars of over 2000 cc. will be raised from 25 to 50 per cent with a minimum of IL2 per kilo instead of IL1.
• the period for receiving a car with reduced taxes is extended from two years to three, but in the third year the tax exemption will be reduced by one twelfth for each month of delay, until by the end of the year, the full tax is payable.
The reason for postponing the application of the new rule is to give olim time to adapt, a treasury spokesman said.

Passengers should have been boarding when Arabs attacked

JERUSALEM POST STAFF
LOD AIRPORT. — A delayed departure for Israel on Monday afternoon probably prevented seven El Al passengers from getting involved in the gunfight at Nicosia airport, one of the passengers said here yesterday.

Samuel Sabbagh, 57, arrived here in the early hours of yesterday morning on a relief plane sent to Nicosia to bring back the passengers, crew and some of the security personnel of El Al flight 834, which was attacked by Arab terrorists at Nicosia airport about 3 p.m. on Monday.

Mr. Sabbagh, a Turkish-born businessman who now lives in New York, said that El Al held up flight 834's departure to allow him to make the flight. The plane on which Mr. Sabbagh, his wife Clara, and sister-in-law, Nina Sit, 43, of Tel Aviv, arrived in Nicosia from Ankara was delayed, he said.

"The boy from the El Al office came over to me after it ended," Mr. Sabbagh said. "He told me, 'You know, if it hadn't been for your delay, they would have sailed you all on the boarding ramp steps.'"

Mr. Sabbagh said that he was one of the few persons in the airport waiting room who saw any of the action at the El Al-leased Arkia Viscount, parked on the tarmac about 200 metres away. The seven persons scheduled to fly to Israel on the plane were getting ready to board the aircraft when Mr. Sabbagh heard a frantic voice calling "Help, quick, help," over the airport loudspeaker.

"I heard the shots and ducked behind a grating with a few other people," Mr. Sabbagh said. "Next to me was a Cypriot policeman with a grenade in one hand and a revolver in the other."

"About 40 metres away," he said, "I saw two men sprawled under the plane and police catch one man, pin his arms behind his back and rush him away."

Another passenger, Israel Shikomo Dashi, 40, said he saw a Land Rover appear on the tarmac and head for the El Al plane. "At that instant, the hubbub started." The car circled the airplane several times, and "shooting started everywhere — Israel, police, terrorists."

Then, Dashi said, he saw "two men in the car get hit and another surrender to the police."

A British businessman, Keith Pearson, 36, said that he "didn't see much at all. I hung myself behind a pillar so there was four feet of concrete between me and the bullets."

Trygve Maseng, captain of the attacked airliner, and co-pilot Uri Keshet, contacted later yesterday, said they were under instructions not to take "any case, I saw nothing," Capt. Maseng told The Jerusalem Post. "I hit the floor as soon as I heard shooting, and stayed there till it was all over."

The relief plane, a Herald leased by El Al from Arkia, was held up about an hour in Nicosia airport on Monday night, waiting for the Cyprus authorities to return the passports of two Israeli security men. The passports were finally released at midnight, and the relief Herald left almost immediately, arriving in Lod at 1.30 a.m. yesterday. On board were the two security

French helped kill alleged Israel spy

PARIS (UPI). — French sympathizers with the Palestinian cause helped to kill a suspected spy for Israel in Paris and aided preparations for the massacre of Israeli athletes at Munich, "Paris-Match" magazine said yesterday.

It said the Frenchmen admitted this in an interview with the reporters. According to the magazine, the sympathizers said they did so because of their feelings for an oppressed people — "not out of hatred for Israel." They said several Jews were in their ranks.

Debate too much for two in Cairo

CAIRO (Reuters). — Discussion became so heated in Monday's meeting of the Arab Socialist Union (A.S.U.) that two members collapsed, one of them with a heart attack, Cairo newspapers reported yesterday.

The five-hour debate centred on differences between the leadership of the A.S.U., Egypt's only political party, and the People's Assembly (parliament).

One legislator, Mohamed Abdul Ghany, collapsed with a heart attack during the discussion and was taken to hospital. A second member, Abdul-Aziz el-Ganzouri, fainted and was given first aid treatment on the spot.

The debate was a follow-up to President Anwar Sadat's recent government shakeup in which he replaced A.S.U. Secretary-General Sayyed Marie and took over the premiership himself, after saying that the A.S.U. and government had often been working against each other.

Israeli jailed in U.S. stolen securities case

NEW YORK (UPI). — An Israeli citizen was sentenced on Monday to 10 years in prison and fined $5,000 for scheming to sell $300,000 worth of securities stolen from a Wall Street firm.

British seize 5 gunmen in Ulster

BELFAST (UPI). — British troops captured two gunmen who were surprised while attempting to set up an ambush yesterday, the army said. It was the third such incident in as many days.

Elsewhere, troops and police arrested three men, uncovered two explosive caches and defused a bomb.

In London, Northern Ireland Secretary William Whitelaw introduced legislation to establish an 80-member regional assembly for the troubled province.

Makarios denounces Arab attacks

NICOSIA. — Archbishop Makarios, the President of Cyprus, said yesterday that his government is "determined to take all measures" to prevent a repetition of Monday's Arab terrorist attacks on the Israeli ambassador's residence and an Israeli airliner. He denounced the attacks as "inadmissible acts."

The President issued a statement yesterday afternoon, as he met with Israeli Ambassador Rahamin Timor. He said that Monday's attacks "constituted regrettable confirmation" that the Arab-Israeli conflict "has been extended to Cyprus."

The Cypriot leader noted that the attacks were not the first to take place in Cyprus, mentioning the death of an Arab in a hotel room explosion, and the shooting of an Israeli businessman. (Two other recent incidents, not mentioned by President Makarios, were the apparent attempted hijack of an Italian passenger ship en route to Israel last October, and the March, 1973 explosion aboard the Israeli-bound cruise ship Soudan.)

Six of the 10 terrorists — members of an organization calling itself the "National Organization of Arab Youth" — appeared in Nicosia District Court yesterday. They were remanded in custody for eight days. Two others were under guard at a Nicosia hospital.

Police were searching yesterday for another member of the six-man group which attacked at the Nicosia airport. He was thought to have escaped into nearby fields during the shooting. A tenth man was shot dead by an Israeli security man at the airport.

Nine members of the gang were identified yesterday. The six airport attackers were Fahet Omar al-Sultan, 27, of Saudi Arabia, killed; Talat Ahmet el-Najafy, 25, of Saudi Arabia; and Othman al-Khaimmah and Said Abdul Rahman, age and nationality unknown, and the escaped man. Taking part in the attack on the ambassador's residence were Nawaf Mahmoud al-Makki, 27, of Saudi Arabia, who was injured by bomb fragments, AB Fadel Aljouri, 26, of Oman, Hilal Ahmet Saoualha, 30, of Oman, Faisal Ali Alajammal, 30, both of Ras al-Khaimmah, in the Persian Gulf.

The terrorists "struck at two Israeli targets" almost simultaneously shortly after 3 p.m. on Monday. One group placed a bomb outside the building housing the Israeli ambassador's residence in the heart of the city, killing one Cypriot guard in the ensuing gunfight. The other group lost one of its six members in an abortive attempt to hijack or blow up an Israeli airliner at Nicosia airport.

Cypriot authorities announced yesterday that a Greek army sergeant was wounded in the leg by a stray bullet as he walked in a field adjacent to the Nicosia airport during the attack. He was in satisfactory condition at a local hospital yesterday.

Police said that the airport raiders, who carried airline maps with routes to Libya marked in red, actually intended to hijack the El Al plane to Cairo. The group also intended to hijack another aircraft on the field — either a Turkish Airlines DC-8 or a Royal Canadian Air Force Boeing 707 — and take the two planes to the Egyptian capital.

An opposition newspaper in the Cypriot capital said yesterday morning that the terrorists probably were aided by members of the pro-Makarios leftist Edeka party. The paper, "Etimisia," said that the terrorists were all armed with Czech-made automatic pistols of a type used by Edeka. (AP, UPI, Reuters)

EVERYTHING YOU NEED IS AVAILABLE

TWA's AMBASSADOR SERVICE. A GIMMICK, OR NOT A GIMMICK?

TWA's Ambassador Service aims to give you a better deal for the same fare as any other airline's economy service.

It gives you a better deal in the things that matter to you - like convenience, comfort, and space.

None of these are gimmicks. If they were, experienced travellers would have seen through them.

Instead, so many experienced travellers are changing to TWA's Ambassador Service that we've now become the leading transatlantic carrier.

NOT A GIMMICK

All TWA's 747s and 707s have our exclusive, specially designed seat (on the 707, the middle folds down as a side table when nobody's sitting next to you).

These special seats cost us nearly £5 million. That's the price of building a real difference into an airline.

NOT A GIMMICK

Legroom speaks louder than fancy gimmicks. On all international flights, we give you the maximum leg-room IATA allows.

And TWA's special design gives you maximum shinroom.

NOT A GIMMICK

Most economy flights don't give you any choice of food. We give you a choice of three main courses. It adds to our overheads, but it gives you a better meal.

NOT A GIMMICK

We're the only airline to have a terminal to itself at New York's Kennedy Airport. It handles on average no more than twenty international flights a day. Other airlines would like to use our spare capacity. We prefer to keep it spare, so as to give you a quicker checkout.

Call your Travel Agent or TWA.

Every day a magician sails in a Magic Castle with a tiny Tammy de Melo, master of the 60 ft. cabin "Magic Castle" is no every-gician — and Eilat is no chessman.

Arrival in Eilat last month, with tiny Tammy de Melo, 19, Portuguese Eurasian, black hair reaches her knees and who has been assistant for the past years, and their crew of eight, brought a touch of the exotic to the Eilat Lagoon Marina, the Singapore-built "Magic" is moored.

Calvert, whose face is curiously all over Eilat, in a colorful poster advertisement, is to be staged here in tip Murray Hall on April 15, and 15, with the proceeds of the local branch of Wizo, perhaps, be most aptly described as a "Gentleman Adventurer," familiar to anyone who watched the late, late, this is not only because of striking resemblance to Ronald Colman and touch of Errol Flynn — 2 in. debonair charmer, a Hollywood star in his 30s, with 42 his credit in which he have villains for Columbia; detective of the "succession" series, pilot, photographer, and starring films as "Dark Venture" of Escape.

However, his love of magic brought him to Hollywood — has, ever since, guided him through a life of hair-raising, that reads like a fairy today's dull world of communism.

Early urge

A New Trenton, Indiana, he urged to become a man of art in his youth and he the art even while he was the Ashbury College of in Kentucky. It was there out on a one-man show and, by chance, by a New theatrical agent who immediately took him away from and into the theatre — on a while circuit that led him to the top as a performer all previous records at state theatre on Broadway. I had their collective eyes remarkable man with the timing, whose sure magic a touch of tongue-in-cheek that was just what they or the silver screen.

His parts with the less that marks every- does, Calvert became him- self licensed pilot, an ardent and an excellent mark- smanship him to shoot eleven before the cameras as being the part of a big game "Dark Venture," turning old story into a real life as film contracts, however, a clause that allowed eep on with his first love, magic shows — and that, with his love of the sea — on the first of his three- world magic-making cruises, in a 100 ft sailing second voyage was in a sler — and his present crise began last year out of Los Angeles in a cabin cruiser, "Mercury," which took him to Singapore. There he commissioned the "Magic Castle," a 60 ft. cabin cruiser, where a step into Calvert's living quarters takes you straight to the Far East.

A hundred hand-carved oak panels decorate the walls, light glows softly from tasselled lampshades and glints on the sequined Oriental cushions thrown here and there. One wall is taken up by an electric organ that, with a press of the pedal, gives you a full orchestra with any symphonic rhythm your mood calls for, while a pair of carved elephants in highly polished teak keep guard together with fierce-looking carved wood eagle.

His route this time brought him to Eilat via Borneo, Indonesia, Sumatra (where he was given his sailor-chestnut), Ceylon, India, Karachi, the Persian Gulf and up the Indian Ocean via East Africa and into the Red Sea, stopping at Jeddah in Saudi Arabia.

He had given professional shows in most of these countries — a large number of them being charity shows where he felt the causes deserving — or that the people just couldn't afford to buy tickets. They found warm welcomes and standing ovations everywhere.

Jedda sojourn

Only in Jedda — where they stopped for refueling and were held up for over two weeks — did they find themselves under suspicion of continuing to Eilat. Their story that they were Alchaba bound was not swallowed by the Saudi Arabian authorities and it was only with the help of the American Consulate that they were finally allowed to continue on their way. The same Consul notified the Israeli authorities to expect the "Magic Castle" at Sharm where they arrived at night. An Israeli patrol boat hove to, and asked, "Is there a Captain Calvert aboard?" Satisfied there was, they escorted the "Magic Castle" up the Gulf to Dahab, where, the following evening, Calvert gave his first show in Israel, to Israeli soldiers sitting on the beach.

During his stay in Eilat, John Calvert has already made a large circle of friends, among them the indomitable Fay Moria, who quickly persuaded him to put on his show for the benefit of the Wizo Baby Cretche she is planning to build here. Having friends in the business in Tel Aviv, Calvert was able to arrange a full complement for his Magicorama Spectacular, which will also include a number of very excited Eilat boys and girls.

All his equipment for his show — which fills a five-ton truck — he carries with him on board wherever he goes. Levitation and cutting-off heads in his stock-in-trade, while his sleight-of-hand has already been proved at a number of local parties where he managed to produce ping-pong balls from the mouths of the giggling guests — so the success of his show is already assured, with his large-sized coloured posters all over town just heightening the anticipation of the children — and their parents.

From Eilat, as soon as the Mediterranean is calm enough, the "Magic Castle" will be lifted out of the water by a giant crane and hauled overland to Ashdod for the European part of the expedition, which will include the Riviera, Spain, Britain — and sometime next year — getting back to America.

An ardent enthusiast for what he has seen in Israel (and he has already visited all over the country) he feels that not enough is done in promoting our country abroad. He suggested that a colour TV film of the "Magic Castle" overland journey from Eilat to Ashdod, showing on the way how the desert has been made to bloom and how civilization has been brought to the wilderness would be an excellent way to advertise Israel. It would be a story that would readily be bought by TV companies abroad, especially in America. Any enterprising Israeli film-makers reading this story can find John Calvert in the Eilat Marina until April 24.

Education c'ttee to air 'Anti-religious' play

Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter

The Knesset yesterday voted to the Education Committee two urgent motions for the agenda, about the Education Ministry's plans to sponsor the controversial play "Status Quo Vadis," which orthodox circles claim is anti-religious.

The two motions were presented by the N.R.P.'s Dr. Yehuda Ben-Meir and Rabbi Avraham Werdiger (Poale Agudat Israel).

Deputy Premier and Education Minister Yigal Alon, replying to the debate, said he had every trust in the Omaniut La'am theatrical department which had decided to purchase "Status Quo Vadis" for performance in various parts of the country.

(Omaniut La'am is jointly run by the Education Ministry, the Histadrut and the Israel-America Cultural Foundation, to arrange theatrical performances in development townships and country areas, which the major theatrical companies do not often tour.)

Mr. Alon said he had not read the book "Fisheder" (The Arrangement) by former M.E. Shulamit Aloni, on which the playwright Oded Sobol had based his "Status Quo Vadis." But he had been officially assured by the Omaniut La'am repertoire committee, that the play did not incite against religion in any way.

So far only Arad and Kiryat Gat had invited the Hafia Theatre to put the controversial play on. Mr. Alon said, because Omaniut La'am had advised all townships enjoying its services that it was best to examine the play beforehand.

Mr. Alon suggested moving the motions to the Education Committee as a sort of "test-case" — as he put it.

In his motion, Dr. Ben-Meir called "Status Quo Vadis" "an anti-Semitic play reminiscent of Der Stuermer which wounded the feelings of hundreds of thousands of Israelis."

Rabbi Werdiger accused Mr. Alon of having been "more permissive" than any previous Minister of Education.

A really traditional seder

By Molly Lyons Bar-David

THE Seder menu is really a traditional one. Just to vary tradition slightly here is a meal for twelve, worth trying.

Carciofi Alla Giudaica — Jewish Style

18 small (or medium) artichokes, 8 crushed cloves of garlic, 8 tbsps. chopped parsley, 5 tbsps. chopped mint, 1 cup olive oil, lemon wedges, salt.

Trim the tops off the artichokes, working around and around so as to retain the shape. Soak in salt water for an hour, then drain dry. Meanwhile lightly fry the garlic and herbs in a tablespoon of the oil and tuck a little of this mixture into the centre of each artichoke. Heat the remaining oil and place the artichokes in it, upside down — 2 or 3 at a time. Cook until crisp on the outside (about 10 minutes) and serve hot with lemon wedges and salt. The artichokes open up like a rose and are crunchy on the outside and tender within.

Grouper with Mushrooms

3 kilos Grouper fish, 5 sliced carrots, 3 sliced onions, 3 cloves of garlic, salt and pepper, 1 cup water, 20 small button mushrooms or even bigger ones that can be sliced.

Sear the fish in hot oil. Put it on a bed of sliced vegetables, add the seasoning and water and simmer for a pot roast for a bit more than an hour, or until the fish flakes with a fork. Turn the Grouper once during the cooking. Add the mushrooms towards the end of the cooking. Or if you wish you can put it in the oven and cover it with aluminium foil.

Horseshell Relish

1/2 cup grated fresh horseshell, 1/2 cup citrus vinegar, 1 tsp. salt, 2 cups grated boiled beets, 2 tbsps. sugar, pinch of pepper.

Grate the horseshell root out-of-doors or it will draw more tears than a bushel of onions. Mix all the ingredients together. Serve with timed dill pickles.

Soup with Almond Knaidlach

Chicken Soup: 1 chicken (but up) 4 litres of water, 3 carrots cut up, 3 chopped onions, 1 large celery root cut up, 2 parsnips cut up, 3 summer squashes cut up, 1 large kohlrabi cut up, 1 large sweet potato cut up, 1 or 2 leeks.

Cook the chicken, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Simmer gently with the water and all the vegetables and seasonings. Add more water if needed. Cook for 2 hours. When the chicken and vegetables are done, strain the soup and have it ready to serve with Knaidlach.

Almond Knaidlach:

3 eggs separated, 1/2 cup matza meal, pinch of nutmeg, cinnamon or any spice, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 1/2 tbsps. marrow fat (from bones), 8 tbsps. chopped parsley, 30 almonds.

Beat the yolks and whites separately (but not beyond a light froth). Add all the ingredients except the almonds and mix well. Roll into balls and tuck an almond into each ball. Set aside for half an hour and then drop into boiling salted water. Drop into boiling soup just before serving. These knaidlach are not as light as the recipe which calls for keeping the mixture in the refrigerator for several hours before using, but they are just as good.

Glazed Roast Beef with Oranges

3 cups brown sugar (or even honey and white sugar) 5 tbsps. lemon juice, 1/2 cup orange juice, dash of ginger, 1 1/2 tsp. dry mustard, 2 1/2 to 3 kilos roast of beef, orange slices for garnish.

To achieve a fabulous golden glaze on your roast, as well as do wonders for the flavour, make a mixture of the lemon juice, orange juice, ginger, and mustard and rub the mixture over the roast. Roast the meat at 500F for 20 minutes. Reduce heat to 300F and roast 2 hours more. Baste the roast with the drippings three or four times during the roasting. Serve the meat surrounded by plain or grilled orange slices.

Honeyed Chicken

Salt, 2 large chickens (1 1/2 to 2 lbs. each — use frozen chickens), 1 lemon, 100 grams margarine, 5 tbsps. honey (more if you wish).

Salt the chickens. Rub with the lemon. Mix the margarine and mix it with the honey. Brush the chicken inside and out with the sweetener. Roast in a 350F oven — for two chickens between 1 1/2 to 2 hours — basting occasionally with more of honey-margarine mixture. If you wish you can also sprinkle on paprika.

Turkey Steaks

3 kilos turkey breast, 3 beaten eggs, salt and pepper, matza meal, fat for frying.

Have the butcher cut the turkey breasts 1 centimetre thick and pound them lightly with a mallet. Dip the steaks in beaten egg, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and roll in matza meal. Fry the steaks on rather low heat until tender (about 20 minutes).

Bay Leaf Potatoes

20 medium peeled raw potatoes, oil for deep frying, 20 bay leaves, salt and pepper.

Potatoes must be of the same size for uniform frying. Cut them in half and fry in deep 350F oil a few at a time, together with a bay leaf for each potato, until golden brown (15 to 20 minutes). Arrange the potatoes in a baking dish, a bay leaf next to each.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper. These potatoes can be warmed up for later serving.

Carrot Kugel

1 cup margarine, 10 tbsps. matza meal, 1/2 cup potato flour, 1 cup red wine, 4 cups grated raw carrot, 1/2 cup raisins, 1 cup chopped dates, 1 cup sugar, 2 tbsps. cinnamon and ginger mixed, grated rind of 8 lemons.

Cream the margarine and matza meal. Dissolve the potato flour in the wine. Mix all the ingredients together. Put into a well-greased casserole and bake in a 375F oven for about one hour.

Red Cabbage Salad

1 large head red cabbage, 1 large grapefruit peeled and sliced, 3 sliced apples, 1 1/2 cups diced celery stalks, 1 cup Passover mayonnaise, 1/2 cup of pecans or almonds sliced.

Remove the outside leaves of the red cabbage and cut off the stalk close to the leaves. Fold back the next layer of leaves and cut out the centre of the cabbage. This leaves a shell of red cabbage leaves which will serve as a rosette-petal container for the salad. Put this cabbage bowl into cold water for a little while and then drain it. Shred the cabbage leaves you have removed and mix with all the remaining ingredients. Put it into the Rose petals. Instead of mayonnaise you can use olive oil, vinegar and mustard along with a bit of sugar and salt.

Strawberry Pudding

6 cups whole strawberries, sugar to taste, 2 1/2 cups water, 3 tbsps. potato flour, 1 teaspoon Passover brandy.

Boil half of the strawberries with sugar to taste in 2 1/2 cups of water. Put through a sieve. Dilute the potato flour in the remaining water and add to the mixture. Add the other strawberries and cook in remaining water for 5 minutes. Add the brandy. Pour into sherbet glasses. Top with Lemon Curd.

Lemon Curd

3 eggs, 5 tbsps. margarine, 1 cup sugar, 1 lemon (rind and juice).

Beat the eggs slightly and add the margarine, sugar, finely grated lemon rind, and lemon juice. Place the bowl over a pan of boiling water (use double boiler if you have one) and stir until the mixture is thick and smooth. If you wish you can pour this into warm jars, cover and cool, and put in the refrigerator for later use. However, you can use some of this for the topping of the strawberry pudding.

Passover Pie Crust:

If you wish you can put the strawberries into a Passover pie crust. 1 1/2 cups matza meal sifted, 1/2 cup margarine, 4 tbsps. sugar. Mix the matza meal with the margarine and sugar and pat into a pie pan. Bake for 5 minutes in a hot oven. Let it cool.

Passover Sponge Cake

6 eggs separated, 1 cup sugar, rind
